The CASE Circle of Excellence Awards Program (formerly known as the Recognition Program) identifies and rewards excellence in the areas of alumni relations and communications. The program includes 43 categories in the areas of alumni programming, philanthropy programs, institutional relations, electronic and new media periodicals, and publications.

CASE sponsors several other recognition programs to honor everything from great advancement programs to terrific teachers. Among these are the members-only Circle of Excellence Awards Programs in Alumni Relations, Communications, and Fund Raising; the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching U.S. Professors of the Year Program; the Canadian Professors of the Year Program; and several awards for distinguished service to education, the advancement profession, or CASE.
